JOE FERN, SON OF FORMER MAYOR, INNOCENT VICTIM OF CRUEL PLOT

Former Honolulu Portuguese
Passes Bad Checks in San Diego Under His Name

Joe Fern, Jr., son of the former mayor of Honolulu, who was one of the best musicians and entertainers in the Hawaiian Village at the San Diego exposition last year, had a thrilling experience shortly before he left the California city for home and according to his fellow musicians, it is one that he will not forget for some time to come.

Late last year, the story goes, a young Portuguese said to be well known in Honolulu, and whose first name also was Joe, arrived at San Diego. One evening shortly after his arrival he made the rounds of a number of rooming and apartment houses. Representing himself to be Joe Fern, son of Honolulu's mayor, and naming the Hawaiian Village as his address, he rented during the evening a dozen or more apartments.

By the use of bogus checks, it is reported that the Portuguese obtained that night about $600. If the rent of one apartment was $30 a month, he would present a previously written check for $50 or $60 and receive the change from the proprietor.

Check Holders to Rescue.

The next morning a couple of policemen went to the Hawaiian Village and arrested the real Joe Fern, son of the former Honolulu mayor. In spite of his denials of having had a hand in the transaction, Joe was placed in jail pending an investigation. The wrathful holders of the bogus checks soon came to his rescue, however, and told the police that he was not the one who had passed the phoney paper.

The real Joe was released. A drag-net was put out by the police and a few days later the Portuguese was arrested. His trial was had, but up to the end he maintained to the officials that he was Joe Fern, son of the mayor of Honolulu.

When sentence was pronounced the San Diego newspapers came out with stories that Joe Fern, son of Honolulu's mayor, had been sentenced to serve five years in San Quentin. Employees at the Hawaiian Village got busy and a visit to the police station resulted in the young Portuguese confessing that he was not Joe Fern. The San Diego papers immediately corrected the error.

Those who tell the story say that when the young Portuguese was confronted at the police station by employees of the Hawaiian Village, whom he had known for many years in Honolulu, he broke down and said he didn't know why he had sought to harm the Hawaiian boy who on one occasion loaned him $5 when he was broke in Honolulu.

MR. HENPECK'S RETURN DRAWS WELL AT BIJOU

Theatergoers have heard much about the "Return of Peter Grimm," made famous by David Warfield. Last evening the Bijou first-nighters were aware of the return of "Mr. Henpeck," featuring Fritz Fields. This bill, which had the S. R. O. sign sticking out at the entrance the first time that it was presented here by the Raymond Teal Company, was a screen, and Fritz Fields, in his character work as a henpecked husband, had them hanging on to the seats.

This character gives him an opportunity to display his talents as an old chap with a heart for the "classy" dames, and Fields played the part without overdoing it, something that is not always seen in the delineation of this type of character.

Corinne Carkeek was an excellent foil for the comedian and her caustic remarks and upstate airs made her a favorite with the audience.

The musical hit of the evening was "Just a Bit of Heaven," a song of Old Erin by Madeline Rowe. This is without doubt the biggest song hit of the present engagement.

Edward Marshall, who has sketched his way around the world and back, was a big card with his lightning chalk drawings before the audience. He made a number of sketches of well-known local citizens including "Sonny" Cunha, Hans Kohler, Charles D. Wright and others. His feature sketch of the evening was of an American Indian.

HAWAIIAN BOYS LEAVE NEW YORK SHOW; COME HOME

E. K. ("Duke") Miller, Dan Makana, Henry Clark, James Ahloy, Robert Kauwa and the other Hawaiian boys who went to New York and joined the "Show, Look, Listen" company then being organized in that city, have severed their connection with the aggregation and now are probably on their way back to Hawaii.

The news that the boys had quit the company was received in a letter from Miller to relatives here. The letter explained that the company had decided to "go on the road" and that the boys were opposed to the idea of traveling. While the company was playing in New York, the Hawaiians were able to realize quite a lot of extra money by giving ukulele and guitar lessons and playing for dances and concerts, which revenue, the letter says, would be cut off if the boys went on the road with the company.

R. A. ANDERSON IS ELECTED MEMBER OF PHI KAPPA NU

R. A. Anderson, son of Dr. R. W. Anderson and a graduate of Punahou Academy, now a student at Cornell University, has been elected to Phi Kappa Nu, an engineering society whose members are chosen from students with high scholarship standing in engineering courses. Anderson is also a member of the Cornell Glee Club, in whose concerts his Hawaiian guitar playing always makes a big hit.

The Hawaii Club at Cornell has organized this year with the following officers: R. A. Anderson, president; John T. Moir, Jr., vice-president; W. L. Morgan, secretary-treasurer.

NO SEGREGATION OF ISSUES WILL DELAY BIG CASE

All of the issues in the suit brought by Delegate Kihito to break the trust in which Queen Liliuokalani's property is held, including the one bearing on the mental competency of the queen to dismiss the action, will be merged and heard in one trial, according to a decision which has been reached by Circuit Judge Stuart.

In a hearing before Judge Stuart yesterday, Attorney Antonio Perry, counsel for Liliuokalani, urged the point that the question of whether the queen is mentally incompetent to protect her interests should be tried first. It was his contention that, should the queen be proved mentally competent and sane, she would then have the right to dismiss the suit, as she has already moved to do.

No definite date was set for the beginning of the trial.

RECEPTION EXTENDED FORMER MANAGER OF YOKOHAMA BANK HERE

Eighty prominent Japanese business and professional men were present last night at the reception given by S. Awoki, at his residence, Kapiolani and Green streets, in honor of M. Tokieda, former manager of the Honolulu branch of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Ltd.

Mr. Awoki is the present local manager of this thriving financial institution, and he and his friends assembled at the Awoki residence to extend their good wishes to Mr. Tokieda, who has been promoted to the bank's San Francisco branch.

Mr. Tokieda went on to San Francisco this morning in the T. K. K. liner Chitro Maru, on which he came here from Yokohama yesterday, en route to his new position.

SCIENTIST HUNTING GREAT BAT AND BIG TORTOISE SPECIMEN

Prof. Enoch Morris is traveling more than 10,000 miles to capture a very rare and large species of bat, also a specimen of the elephant tortoise of the Galapagos. He passed through here yesterday on the Oceanic steamer Sierra, en route to Pago Pago.

The scientist is in the employ of the Rothschild Scientific Institute of London. From Pago Pago he will go to Ocean Island, 200 miles west of the Gilberts, taking traps and nets, also a shotgun, in case he gets a chance to wing a specimen of the monster bat which is reported as inhabiting the island.

IF YOU ARE A SICK WOMAN

Can you afford to doubt such overwhelming evidence as that of the letters constantly being published in the daily press, showing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that good old-fashioned remedy made from roots and herbs, restores suffering women to health and strength? Thousands of women suffered just as you are suffering and in letters over their own signatures state they have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Why don't you try it?—Adv.
